Press Release

American HealthTech is ready with MDS 3.0 solution.

New tools and education round out a strong 3-pronged approach.

Ridgeland, MS, May 17, 2010:

“MDS 3.0 Readiness” Redefined by American HealthTech

You need to get your hands on real world MDS 3.0 training now! Our customers already have access to our working MDS 3.0 solution within their current software so they can cover the differences with their staff during their internal training. And, we have published a comprehensive education and communication plan to facilitate their internal training efforts. After all, isn't that what a solid software partner should do?

These readiness tools were planned months ago to help our customers avoid the trauma of a last minute frantic transition to something as mission critical as this very new assessment instrument. Armed with the ability to train staff directly in the new solution, well in advance of the October implementation date, affords our customers a critical edge in getting it right when the changeover comes.

We know that MDS 3.0 is a significant change for our industry. So, just having the MDS update in your software is no solution; you need decision-making tools to assist in the process. Here are just a few of the 'extras' we provide:

- Pre-admission evaluation tools to assist you in determining the clinical and business impact of the next resident admission.
- Optimize RUG/ADL scoring and identify the best start/end of therapy assessment schedule.
- RUG-IV modeling to assist you in judging the impact of RUG-IV on your business.
- RAC Audit Preparedness. Our integrated solution allows you to proactively manage items impacted by RAC audits. It even notifies you when a RAC red flag is identified.

Along with our decision-making tools, we have also made our end-user workflow more intuitive. Our easy-to-use wizard interview format can be used at the bedside on a laptop, netbook, or at a workstation. Plus, we include a complete set of new resident-focused care plan options tailored to the specific language of MDS 3.0, and the newest standards of care. These additions make our system better, smarter and easier to learn.

American HealthTech's application suite continues to be the most fully integrated solution in the industry. Our MDS 3.0 solution was built with that in mind. In fact, we see MDS 3.0 as an opportunity to deliver even more and provide a better way of addressing resident care. In financially challenging times like these we stand with our customers as they migrate from MDS 2.0 to 3.0 without any hidden costs or additional fees. It's the way we've done business for over 30 years.

Our thousands of customers continue to express their appreciation for the active role we play to make their lives a little easier. If you're not one, shouldn't you be?
